

Dear Friends,

Hark, the Herald Angels Sing is a favorite song for many of us during these Advent and Christmas seasons. One verse of the song contains the phrase, "Light and life to all He brings." You may be tempted to sing those words with little thought, but this year we invite you to reflect on them a little more closely. They have real meaning for us because at Solar Under the Sun, we not only sing that phrase, we also try very hard to embody it.

In its work and ministry, Solar Under the Sun strives to bring light to the world:

children in Honduras no longer have to worry about the health risks caused by fumes from kerosene lamps because volunteers from Solar Under the Sun have illuminated their homes with electric light, students no longer need to study beneath streetlights because Solar Under the Sun has built upon its vision of supplying light for schools in small villages around the world.

Solar Under the Sun also shares in Christ's work of bringing life to the world:

our solar installations provide clean water to communities in the developing world, volunteers from Solar Under the Sun are trained to supply sufficient power for medical clinics that serve our sisters and brothers in communities across the globe.

At this glorious time of year, we invite you to partner with us in serving Christ by bringing light and life to our fellow human beings in other corners of God's creation. Your financial contribution to Solar Under the Sun opens a multitude of new dreams . . . makes good health and vitality a joy-filled reality . . . and more than anything else, enhances lives to the glory of God!

And whenever you come across the lyrics "Light and life to all He brings," remember that God calls us to share that light and that life with all God's people.

Thank you for your support of Solar Under the Sun.

With much gratitude,
Tom Ulrich
